We recognise that our business operations, albeit largely office based, have an impact on the environment in terms of raw materials used and waste generation from our design processes, as well as emissions from our global travel. As a company we accept our responsibilities in environmental matters and recognise that good environmental management must be an integral and fundamental part of our business. It is our policy to ensure our environmental impact is monitored and minimised and our staff work as a team to implement such policies.

Apex Circuit Design seeks to minimise our environmental impact as far as is reasonably practicable through the application of the following:

- Senior management commitment to environmental management

- Communication and consultation on environmental issues to the public and staff
- Training of staff on environmental impact

- Documented environmental performance (water and electricity consumption)
- To implement the use of renewable technology for both electricity and heating
- Waste management and recycling scheme

- Use of video conference, BIM, VR and drone information to reduce global travel

Apex Circuit Design will review this policy on a bi-annual basis and make amendments in line with any changes within legislation and our company's own commitments.

Apex Circuit Design will communicate this policy to all employees and ensure they are given proper training where appropriate in order to ensure they have a good awareness of environmental issues.
